PROFILE

I am a professional FullStack Developer with a strong logical and analytical profile, with a huge passion for technology and development. I am currently looking for new challenges in which I can both contribute and keep learning. I am a cordial, respectful and responsible person, with a strong feeling for teamwork and commitment.

EXPERIENCE

DEVELOPER, LINUX MAGIC; VANCOUVER, BC – JUNE 2021 TO PRESENT

The company offers webmail and hosting services for small and medium ISPs. I work on the maintenance and improvement of the user interface of the three current webmail clients, and the user and administrator modules. In addition to the data of users, administrators and companies stored in the DBs. I also worked on creating new product modules for users and administrators, such as adding a new module where the administrator can add the option for each user to offer additional storage for a certain mailbox. The module is not only informative about the offer, but also adds warnings for those mailboxes near or over the limit, and gives the power to the customer to buy extra storage, in the case that a storage purchase is made, immediately the same is added to the mailbox, and the user interface is updated along with the DB.
